HEAD OF OPA, PAUL PORTER RESIGNS JOB

LIQUIDATION UNDER WAY FOR WARTIME PRICE AGENCY

Washington, Nov. 29. (P)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Paul A. Porter as administrator of the Office of Price Administration.

Porter told the president in a letter of resignation dated Nov. 15 that personal reasons made it imperative that he leave the federal service.

He did not say what new line of work he will undertake. It had been reported that he might return to his former post in the government as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, but his letter made it plain he was leaving the government.

Porter told the president that liquidation of OPA is well under way and he did not believe he could personally make any further contribution to the job of closing it out.

Merger Imminent

Merger of the OPA and the Civilian Production Administration into a new liquidation agency is understood to be imminent.

The president in his letter, accepting the resignation, as of Dec. 4 next, said the country owed Porter a debt of gratitude for a difficult job well done.

"We both," Mr. Truman said,

"had grave reservations as to the effectiveness of the (OPA) extension bill which I signed on July 25th last, but I am confident that history will vindicate the wisdom of the decision to carry on for a while longer even with the inadequate powers which the Congress gave."

The president said he wanted to call upon Porter in the future for "specific assignments as your private responsibilities will permit you to accept."

Porter told newsmen he had made no decision as to what job he would take in the business world.

He said he would take a rest until Jan. 1.

Death Of Witness Frees McCrea In Tax Evasion Case

Detroit, Nov. 29. (P)—The death of a principal witness resulted to-day in dismissal of an old income tax evasion charge against Duncan C. McCrea, former Wayne county prosecutor who recently finished serving a state prison term for graft.

U. S. Attorney John C. Lehr moved to quash the 1943 indictment against McCrea, saying that needed testimony disappeared with the death of Harry Colburn, who was the former prosecutor's chief investigator.

The government contended that McCrea had not reported in his income tax returns large earnings obtained through graft between 1936 and 1939, during his tenure as prosecutor. Colburn was alleged to have arranged a system of rackets from brothels, gambling establishments and other unlawful enterprises.

McCrea, who was released from prison in August, thus was freed to carry on his private lumber business in the Upper Peninsula.

German Bluebeard Confesses That He Killed 49 Women

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Nov. 29. (P)—The murderer career of a German "Bluebeard" who confessed to killing 53 persons, including 49 women, is depicted in German police files revealed today. Over a period of 20 years he killed with club, knife and noose.

The Nazis hushed up the whole story—including the death of the rapist—murderer in a prison in Vienna April 8, 1944, after he had been subjected to experiments by German doctors.

A file which fills a bookcase two yards high and one and one-half yards wide in criminal police headquarters yielded the story of Bruno Luedtke. A tall, low-browed man, was arrested in 1943 as a subject in the murder of a Berlin widow, Frieda Roessner, who was found beaten to death and raped in her lodgings. Luedtke had been seen entering the house to deliver laundry.

The police records state that Luedtke confessed he killed Mrs. Roessner and when he was confronted with a list of unsolved slayings, blandly said:

"Yes, I not only committed this murder but many of them—about 50. Practically all were women. Only when forced to do so did I also kill their husbands."

The police files quoted Luedtke as confessing he first killed a woman Feb. 11, 1924. During that year, as a 16-year-old, he killed four women. In the subsequent 19 years he committed at least one slaying in every year except 1927, the records showed.

Sometimes he fell upon his victims in woods or fields, but more frequently trapped them in their homes. Sometimes he broke in at night and if he then encountered the husband, he slew him too. There were four such double murders.

Police said he never used a gun but usually a club or knife and once an electric cord for a noose.

Luedtke's arrest and confinement were never made public for reasons undetermined.

Dec. 10, 1943, he was removed to Vienna because it was feared that, during the increasingly violent Allied bombing of Berlin, he might break out of prison.

In Vienna, the police records said, he was sterilized and made the subject of further medical experiments, which may have caused his death.

COURT UPHOLDS HOLY LAND BAN

Palestine Tribunal Says
British May Bar 4000
Jewish Immigrants

BY CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, Nov. 29. (P)—The Palestine supreme court upheld today the right of the British government to bar the entry into the Holy land of nearly 4,000 Jewish immigrants and, despite the threat of reprisals from the Stern gang, the government announced they would be sent immediately to Cyprus.

Jewish attorneys obtained a writ of habeas corpus Monday demanding that the Palestine government show cause why the 3,854 refugees should be deported.

On Tuesday the Jews were transferred from the freighter Hamer Haifa (Lochita) to three British troop ships, but only after a nine-hour battle in which two Jews were killed. The three troops ships awaited arrival in Haifa Bay while the court decided the case.

The court dismissed the writ today, ruling that there was not sufficient evidence to support the attorney's claim that the government intended to detain the immigrants illegally in Cyprus. The court held that the high commissioner had the right to bar entry on grounds of security, and said that the deportation was legally provided for in Palestine government defense emergency regulations.

A spokesman for the Jewish agency declared that the existence of laws permitting deportation in connection with his marriage to his youthful bride, Marjorie Sage Baker. He was unable to furnish $500 bond and was held for Dec. 10 examination before Justice of the Peace John C. Loucks.

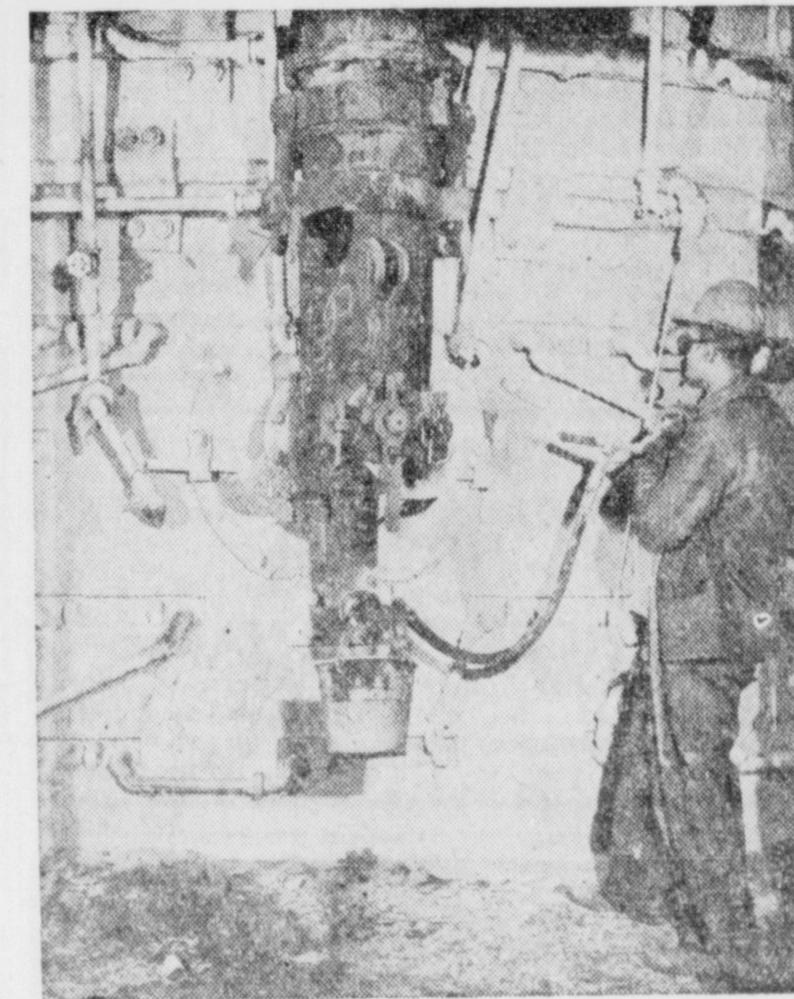

Mrs. Blanche Sage Howarth, 43, of Morley, also demanded examination before Police Judge Edward G. Burleson when arraigned today on charges of contributing to the delinquency of her minor daughter. She was unable to post $200 bond and was held for Dec. 6 examination.

Kent County Social Director Ira M. Degan filed a delinquency charge against the bride, but probable court authorities said action on the girl's case would be deferred pending outcome of charges against two adults.

Russia Pulling Out Troops In Germany

BY WES GALLAGHER

Berlin, Nov. 29. (P)—Large scale withdrawals of Soviet troops apparently were under way in Russian-occupied Germany today amid indications that Russian policy toward Germany was undergoing a major change placing it more in line with views of the United States and Britain.

Reports of the withdrawals came from both American and German sources and Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, acting American deputy military governor, said "We believe the Russians are moving some of their troops back to Russia as Marshal Sokolovsky (Soviet commander-in-chief in Germany) informed Gen. McNair and myself at Allied control council meetings."

Official German sources disclosed that the Russian zone of Germany would be divided soon into five states, each with a separate state legislature and government. The plan, similar to that in the U. S. and British zones, represented a reversal of Soviet policy which called for a strong central government for Germany. The new policy may indicate that the Russians are preparing to follow Secretary of State Byrnes' call for a federated Germany with power divided between the states and a central regime.

No authoritative information was available on the number of Russian troops involved in the redeployment, but a German correspondent who returned recently from Thuringia said the movement there was "something terrific."

(The London Daily Mail said it believed 300,000 Russian troops were being repatriated.)

Yesterday Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in a statement to the political and security committee of the United Nations general assembly in New York accepted the principle of international inspection and control as applied to proposed measures for disarmament.

There also was the possibility the Russians were getting in readiness for the visits to all four zones of four-power teams to check on the progress of liquidation of German war industry.

RUSSIA LASHES AT ATOM BOMB

Scraping Of American
Weapon First On Arms
Reduction Program

BY LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 29. (P)—The Soviet Union left no doubt today that it was aiming to scrap the American atom bomb as the first step of the arms reduction program proposed in the United Nations by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Russia insisted, moreover, on retention of the controversial big power veto over all decisions taken on international control and inspections—a factor in conflict with the firm United States position on proposed atomic control.

"The atom bomb is a sword of Damocles suspended by a thin thread," Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told the 54-nation political committee.

"Only by removing such a menace can we establish security."

"Why not prohibit the manufacture of the atom bomb if you don't plan to use it?" he asked.

Vishinsky added that the U. N. must guard against failure to disarm generally in all countries and on all weapons "starting with the most dangerous."

The Soviet position was set forth after Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex), a United States delegate, demanded that the U. N. take action on an arms reduction plan at the current session of the general assembly and cautioned against any move to sidetrack the atomic energy commission.

MINE OWNERS MAY PREPARE TO NEGOTIATE

PRODUCERS TO TALK OVER OUTLOOK FOR NEW CONTRACT

Washington, Nov. 29. (P)—Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, today called a meeting of his board of directors Monday to determine their position on John L. Lewis' demands for a new contract.

Insisting that the operators ought to press for immediate negotiations with Lewis, the head of the Southern Producers, who thus far have been the most rigidly opposed to meeting Lewis' terms, told a reporter:

"The only way we can get the coal is by making an agreement, and the only way to get that agreement is to start negotiations, and the sooner the better."

Burke said the ten directors who signed a statement at Huntington, W. Va., disclaiming any connection with this viewpoint, feared the invitation to negotiate might in some way interfere with the government's action against Mr. Lewis.

There are 29 members of the association's board of directors, who will meet here in accordance with arrangements at the last quarterly session in Cincinnati, held November 11, Burke said.

"At that time it was agreed that we should call a meeting here as soon as matters developed so that there appeared any chance for negotiations in which the operators would be a party," he added. "We planned to canvass the situation and determine what our position would be on the various issues."

(The London Daily Mail said it believed 300,000 Russian troops were being repatriated.)

Yesterday Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in a statement to the political and security committee of the United Nations general assembly in New York accepted the principle of international inspection and control as applied to proposed measures for disarmament.

There also was the possibility the Russians were getting in readiness for the visits to all four zones of four-power teams to check on the progress of liquidation of German war industry.

BTW, Nov. 29. (P)—Court testimony today solved the mystery of the "corpse" that came to life.

An arm dangling from a plush, new and presumably unoccupied casket had startled attendants at the Wright funeral parlors here. A dead snore added to the eeriness.

But the "corpse" turned out to be Sharon King, 46, and very much alive. Patrolman John Piotrowski said King was "dead drunk" when he arrested him in the mortuary.

King admitted he had been drinking but couldn't explain how he got there.

"Ten dollars or ten days," pronounced Recorder's Judge Paul E. Krause with an admonition to "Watch out or you'll be embalmed by mistake some day."

The Soviet position was set forth after Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex), a United States delegate, demanded that the U. N. take action on an arms reduction plan at the current session of the general assembly and cautioned against any move to sidetrack the atomic energy commission.

Midwest GOP Wrests Control Of Congress

By S. BURTON HEATH
New York—(NEA)—Midwest Republicans are ready to end the 16-year domination of Congress by the Democratic South.

The 14 key floor positions and committee chairmanships in the Senate and 15 in the House, distributed on the basis of seniority, the majority automatically fell to veteran southern Democrats when the party swept to power in 1930.

In the Congress now in its final inactive weeks, nine top jobs in the Senate and 11 in the House are filled by members from either the Deep South or the normally Democratic border states. New England, which once vied with Virginia as the Mother of Statesmen, had only one ranking post in each house. New York and New Jersey together had one in the Senate and two in the House. The only mid-western chairman, Congressman Sabath of Illinois, let two Southerners run his Rules Committee.

Michigan Gets Most
But after Jan. 1 there won't be a single Congressional officer or important chairman from south of Kansas or—with a lone bow to California—from west of Nebraska.

Where Texas used to boast four major Congressional posts, now Michigan may get as many as seven to crow about.

New England will be back with from two to four major posts in the Senate and one in the House. New York is virtually certain of three key House chairmanships. Somewhere between eight and 12 will go to the Midwest, as reward for coming home to Republicanism before the rest of the nation was ready.

All of the jobs whose holders shape and largely dominate legislation have not been definitely allotted. There still is some shuffling to be done. But here's the way things shape up now:

Arthur H. Vandenberg is expected to replace Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee as president pro tem. of the Senate, and to supplant Tom Connally of Texas as Chairman of Foreign Relations. Homer Ferguson is expected to head the Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments (now led by Lister Hill of Alabama), from which vantage point he can be embarrassing to a Democratic president. In the House Jesse P. Wolcott is in line for Banking chairman, Clare Hoffmann for the House Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments, and Earl Michener for Judiciary. George A. Dondero may head the old pork barrel committee—Rivers and Harbors. There would be seven nice jobs for Michigan alone.

New York will lose Wagner's Banking and Sol Bloom's Foreign Relations chairmanships but probably will pick up, in the House, the committee on Appropriations (John Taber), Military Affairs (Walter G. Andrews), and Naval Affairs (W. Sterling Cole)—replacing, respectively, Clarence Cannon of Missouri, Andrew J. May of Kentucky and Carl Vinson of Georgia.

Kansas is going to run Agriculture, with Senator Arthur Capper replacing Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and Congressman Clifford R. Hope supplanting John W. Flanagan of Virginia.

Massachusetts' Joe Martin takes the Speakership from Sam Rayburn of Texas. It looks as though Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Clarence J. Brown of Ohio will split the majority leadership and the Rules chairmanship between them, ousting John W. McCormack of Massachusetts from the former and Sabath of Illinois from the latter (though Eugene E. Cox of Georgia and Howard W.

and will be laid up with it for six months.

Parent-Teacher Association
Rapid River, Mich.—The local P. T. A. held its November meeting on Monday evening at the school gym. The program centered on Girl Scout activities. Mrs. Otto Hult of Gladstone gave a talk on Scouting, its means and aims, and the help it gives those interested in it. Mrs. Ruth Short and Mrs. Grace Burnette gave a report on their attendance at the P. T. A. conference held at Sault Ste. Marie last May 8. They particularly stressed a talk on "Safety" given by one of the teachers on the program. That subject is particularly applicable to Rapid River as the junction of US-2 highway where it crosses the Main street is a very dangerous crossing. With the Colonial Inn on one corner, the River Way Inn across the street, with cars parked to the very edge it is hazardous for pedestrians and especially so for school children as the majority of the school children cross the highway there. Although a caution light is overhead the large number of motorists disregard it entirely. It was pointed out that as the town is not an incorporated one, parking restrictions could not be enforced. The local Lions club agreed to see if anything could be done to make the crossing a little safer by erecting signs. A committee of three women was appointed to work with the Lions committee to see what could be done.

Mr. Bowers announced that Scouting work, as well as 4-H, was sadly in need of adult leaders, and asked anyone in the community interested in the youth of the town, to volunteer to help in any way they felt capable. The next meeting of the association will be the last Monday in January.

Both New Hampshire senators have good jobs coming. Styles Bridges seems to have Kenneth McKellar's Appropriations chairmanship in his pocket, which would leave Military Affairs for Chan Gurney of South Dakota. Charles W. Tobey is in line to succeed Wagner on the Banking committee. He also is ranking Republican on Naval Affairs, which is expected to go to Wayland Brooks of Illinois.

George D. Aiken of Vermont is entitled, by seniority, to the Labor chairmanship. But Aiken has been too New Dealish in his labor votes to please many of his associates, and will have to put up a vigorous fight if he keeps Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota from getting that post.

Nebraska's Kenneth Wherry replaces Lister Hill as majority whip in the Senate, and Illinois' Leslie Arends succeeds Robert Ramspeck of Georgia in the corresponding House job.

And the only good post scheduled to go across the Rockies is the House Labor chairmanship, for which California's Richard J. Welch, regarded as quite liberal in his outlook, is in line.

DEER SEASON CLOSES TODAY

Kill Believed Heaviest In Years; 10,215 Cross Straits

The 1946 Michigan deer hunting season will close today, and it is believed that more deer were killed within the past 15 days than during any season for the last several years. The conservation department reported that to midnight Thursday 10,215 bucks were taken south across the Straits, an increase of 1,537 over the same period last year.

Hunting conditions generally were favorable throughout the season, although the first week was considered "too warm" by many hunters. Later cold weather and tracking snow made conditions ideal for this group of hunters.

Here are some statistics compiled by the conservation department for the hunting season to date:

Game transported across the Straits to midnight Thursday:

Year	1945	1946
Deer	8,687	10,215
Bear	155	284
Coyote	15	13
Bobcat	13	7
Wolves	8	14
Fox	25	15

For the conservation district including Delta, Marquette and Alger counties, with headquarters at Escanaba, there were 67 arrests made during the season. Twenty-four messages were delivered to hunters by conservation officers. A total of 20 illegal deer were recovered.

There were five actual deer hunting accidents in the district so far during the season, none of which were fatalities. Delta and Marquette counties each had two accidents, and Alger county one.

Prior to the deer hunting season, however, there was one fatal gun accident in Delta county, and one trapper during the season died of exposure near Dukes. Altogether there were seven small game hunting accidents so far this season.

Oddities of the deer hunting season reported to conservation headquarters here included:

One albino deer reported seen near Rapid River, one antlered doe shot near St. Nicholas, and one buck reported taken with antlers totaling 34 points.

Dec. 17 Is Deadline For Enlistments In Navy College Plan

The U. S. Navy Recruiting Representative, L. K. Sprinkel, Chief Gunners Mate, today said that there are only 18 days left in which high school seniors and graduates can apply for enrollment in the Navy's new College Training Program. January 18, 1947 has been set as the date on which a nation wide competitive examination will be given to all qualified applicants for enrollment in the NROTC or NACP. From those who pass, several thousand will be selected to begin college in the Fall of 1947. But, applications must be received by the Naval Examining Section, Princeton, New Jersey by December 17th in order to be considered for the examination in January. This new program offers a four year college education at Navy expense plus a commission in the United States Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation. The examinations will be given in over 500 cities throughout the United States. Sprinkel urged all interested young men, 17 to 21 years old, to avail themselves of this excellent educational opportunity and said that application forms and detailed information about the program could be obtained from high school principals, college deans and Offices of Naval Officer Procurement.

Two Recent Steps Will Spur FM Broadcasting

Washington—Two recent steps will promote FM (frequency modulation) broadcasting. Fixed wavelengths for the future have been frozen, and an adapter for prewar receivers permits their use with the new higher frequencies.

The radio bands now assigned to frequency modulation broadcasting are between 88 and 100 megacycles. These are so much higher than prewar frequencies that older receivers, unaided, cannot pick them up. A new frequency modulation adapter, for attachment to the receivers, will keep them in service.

A device for this purpose is just announced by the Stromberg-Carlson Company and will be known as the Driscoll adapter. It is good news for an estimated 300,000 owners of prewar FM receivers. Other adapters will probably be available soon.

With the fixing of FM bands by the Federal Communication Commission, the way is cleared for manufacturers to proceed full speed in making transmitters and new receivers, and for broadcasters to erect FM stations. FCC has declared its intention to make no further change in FM frequencies.

The new adapters are not intended for use on the ordinary radio receivers now used in millions of homes. These will still be needed because FM will not replace broadcasting of the conventional type. It will supplement it. Because of its limited range, FM can be used profitably only in congested areas with population great enough to warrant installations of the special broadcasting stations required.

Amplitude-Modulation

Ordinary broadcasting, now on relatively low frequencies, is known technically as amplitude modulation (AM) transmission. Modulation in radio is a term used when two or more waves are combined to form a new wave with frequencies not present in the original. In AM the amplitude of the wave is modified. If FM, the waves are radiated at fixed intensity, or amplitude, but their frequency is varied.

FM operates on very high frequencies. In other words, the waves by which it travels through space are very short. This is the principal difference between it and ordinary radio. It requires its own transmitters and receivers.

These receivers must be within line-of-sight distances of the transmitters because very high frequency waves travel only in straight lines like light, or television signals.

Diversity of Industry

ANNOUNCEMENT by the Harnischfeger Corporation of Milwaukee that it will establish an industrial plant in Escanaba early in 1947 culminates an industrial expansion program launched by the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the City of Escanaba that has been exceptionally successful.

The diversity of the new industries brought to Escanaba within the past two years is particularly noteworthy. The decision of the Harnischfeger Corporation to locate here brings to the community a heavy construction industry that offers immense opportunities for expansion. Although the corporation will begin its Escanaba operations on a rather small scale, company officials have indicated that Harnischfeger will increase its personnel and the scope of its products in Escanaba extensively in the years ahead.

For the time being, at least, the industrial committee will not seek additional manufacturing plants here because the employment load still to be filled is considerable. The emphasis in the immediate future will be upon home construction because the committee recognizes that the housing problem is closely tied in with industrial growth of Escanaba.

The economic prospects in Escanaba in the postwar years are the brightest in the community's history. In addition to all of the personnel that will be required to man the plants, old and new, there will be plenty of jobs in the building industry, plus the inevitable expansion of retail activity in the community.

Employment Increases

UNEMPLOYMENT in the Upper Peninsula was estimated at 9,500, or about 1,000 less than the previous month's figure, according to the labor market letter issued by the Michigan Unemployment Service.

Twenty-three factories in the area reported an increase of 240 in employment to a total of 10,940. Forty-seven logging camps and sawmills showed employment up 130 to 5,220.

While there employment offices received 920 applications during the month, this figure was offset by 1,800 workers, including 1,300 veterans and less than 100 women, who were retired from the labor market. Many of the veterans had entered college or other schools, and at least 350 persons had obtained jobs outside the Upper Peninsula.

In Delta county, employment is reported as being stable. During October, there were 530 persons, mostly veterans, seeking employment. Some of these ex-service men will be going away to school, of course, and the remainder should be mostly all absorbed when Escanaba's new industries get into production by early spring. Residential and commercial construction, once building materials are made available, also should furnish considerable employment in the new year. The employment prospects for Delta county in 1947 are altogether satisfactory.

Cusino Honor Camp

THE state corrections commission and state conservation department are considering the possibilities for establishing an honor camp in the Cusino game refuge area.

The camp would house upwards of 50 men, who have a good record at prison and are nearing the time of their release from confinement. At the Cusino area, they would be engaged in tree planting, experimental deer feeding and other conservation work.

Prisoners from the Jackson state prison have been used the past three years on similar projects at the state game farm at Mason. The plan has worked successfully at Mason, and doubtless similar results could be achieved at Cusino.

There is nothing like work in the outdoors to give a man a new outlook on life. In addition to speeding the rehabilitation of the prisoners, the project should result in an expansion of the conservation program at the Cusino game refuge.

Public Courtesies

HOTEL managers in Wisconsin were given some good advice by officials of the American Hotel association at a convention in Milwaukee the other day. The hotel men were cautioned that if they hope to keep the gains that have resulted from high occupancy in recent years, they must improve service immediately and maintain the highest degree of courtesy.

The advice to the hotel men is equally good advice to managers of nearly every kind of public service. The scarcity of labor during the war years, coupled with the great demand for goods and services, resulted in a sharp lowering of public courtesies. The return to the days when "the customer is always right" is fast approaching and some businessmen have learned that that time is already here.

When the full impact of competition hits the American trade channels, the concerns that show the highest degree of public service and courtesy will once again command the customers' respect and business.

An Old Evil

THE story of the inadequacy of public school teachers' salaries is not a new one. In fact, the only excuse for retelling it is that it seems to be as consistently forgotten as it is frequently told, and also because the situation is passing from that of a national disgrace to that of a national problem.

The Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines have been discussing this problem at some length. Recent figures indicate that 350,000 teachers have left their jobs since the war began. Some 60,000 of them have not been replaced. An additional 109,000 teaching jobs are being filled by persons who could not qualify for the jobs except under emergency conditions.

The reasons for the exodus are not hard to find. During the war teachers received an average pay increase of 11 per cent, as against 56 per cent for industrial workers. That brought their average annual salary to $1786 at war's end, or about $34 a week.

Monoxide Gas Menace

WHEN winter comes, the menace of monoxide gas poisoning accompanies it. Already, the newspapers in the northern climes have carried stories about persons who were victims of the deadly gas while seated in their parked automobiles.

Running a car in a closed garage is a common danger. The state health department also warns that carbon monoxide gas can come from a faulty water heater or furnace. Monoxide gas is a danger to be guarded against during the winter season.

MICHIGAN'S DILEMMA

(Minneapolis Star Journal)

Minnesota's legislators, who soon will have to rule on requests for a veterans' bonus and more funds for teachers' salaries, would do well to take a long look at the troubles Michigan is running into while trying to solve the same problems.

Michigan voters on Nov. 5 approved two constitutional amendments. One calls for diversion of one-third of sales tax revenues to local governments. The second authorizes a $250 million soldiers' bonus bond issue.

Officials preparing figures for Governor-elect Kim Sigler say the amendments of the next fiscal year. Previously the state had been purring along smoothly, accumulating a comfortable surplus.

Chief exponent of the sales tax diversion amendment was the Michigan Education association, which is out to boost teachers' salaries and put through a minimum pay law. Half of the money returned to local governments is earmarked for the school system.

Michigan, it would appear, has cured two headaches only to contract a new and possibly more painful one in the process. For some reason which formerly poured into state coffers from the sales tax must be obtained elsewhere. Already it has been suggested that revenues from special taxes on liquor and intangible property, which had been going to local governments be returned to the state. Welfare costs formerly paid by the state now may be dumped back on local governments.

The alternatives are higher tax rates, new taxes or drastic reduction in services now provide by the state—none of which are politically appetizing.

Minnesota needs more equitable distribution of tax revenues for about the same reasons that prompted Michigan to vote as it did. Our local governments deserve a larger share, much of which might be used to pay higher salaries to teachers. Michigan's experience, however, demonstrates that unless the total tax pie is enlarged, cutting a bigger slice for one level of government inevitably leaves smaller portions for other units. Arriving at a precise division that is fair to all will not be easy. Our newly elected lawmakers must exercise both wisdom and patience lest they rob Peter to pay Paul.

IN THE NEWS—In the Nov. 18 issue of Newsweek is mentioned the name of an Escanaba man, now in Washington, D. C. He is Donald C. Cook, son of Mrs. Nelson Cook of 517 South 11th street, who is executive assistant to Attorney General Clark, and is Clark's choice for alien property custodian.

Mention of Donald Cook's name in Newsweek was noticed by Escanaba City Clerk Carl E. Anderson, who remembered that he had received an application from Cook for an absent voter ballot prior to the Nov. 5 election.

THANKSGIVING STORY—This is a story of thanksgiving—and a crippled dog and a crippled man and a woman who helped them both.

The woman had the dog brought to her by a girl who saw the dog tossed out of an Escanaba store. Not knowing what to do with the dog, the girl took it to the woman, who is willing to help anyone in trouble—including dogs. The evening after she received the dog, the woman took the poor hobbling beast for a little walk on the street. An old man, walking with the aid of a cane, stopped and asked whether he might have the dog.

"We are both crippled," he said, "and I will give the dog a good home."

The woman gave the dog to the man and later checked to determine how well he was caring for it.

She found the man building a fire in his little stove, and the dog was tucked warmly into the man's bed.

Recognizing the kindness of the man, and wishing to reward him, the woman went shopping and bought a chicken and other food for a Thanksgiving Day dinner which she presented to him with her compliments.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—When the CIO, in convention at Atlantic City, adopted a resolution taking John L. Lewis' side in the current dispute, it was not out of love of the man who gave the CIO its start. It was done in the belief that Lewis was bound to win his legal battle with the government, and therefore the CIO wanted to ride with a winner.

Some CIO leaders have expressed this with remarkably frank cynicism. It is certain, they say, that Lewis will win the final round in the supreme court.

The case will eventually go to the highest court and it may get there much quicker than is normally possible. If the court should decide that the case was of sufficient national importance, a special session could be held at which the coal dispute could be given precedence.

That happened in the summer of 1942 in the case of the German saboteurs who were caught by the FBI and were tried by a military commission. Within three days, the court, in a memorandum opinion, denied the petition of the saboteurs for habeas corpus.

MAY REOPEN COURT FEUD—

Unhappily, the coal case is likely to reopen the bitter court feud that was exposed to public view last June. In his blast from Nuremberg, where he was prosecuting the German war criminals, Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson let the world know what he thought of his colleague, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black.

The quarrel had been touched off by the Jewell Ridge Coal company case. Jackson believed that Black should have disqualified himself from sitting in that case because Black's former law partner, Crampton Harris, was attorney for the United Mine Workers local which won a 5 to 4 decision from the court. This was the portal-to-portal-pay case in which Lewis' miners were awarded pay for the time they spend traveling from the portal to the surface at which the coal is mined.

Because Jackson felt so strongly, he attached to the opinions in the case an almost unprecedented statement in which, in legal language, he plainly rebuked his colleague Black. Later, from Nuremberg, he went even further:

"... While Mr. Justice Murphy was preparing his opinion, a strike of the mine workers and negotiations with the operators were proceeding. It was proposed to hand down the decision in favor of the miners without waiting for the opinion and dissent. The only apparent reason behind this proposal was to announce the decision in time to influence the contract negotiations."

During the coal strike, Chief Justice Stone protested such proposed irregular treatment vigorously. I do not believe Mr. Justice Murphy favored it. In all events, it was abandoned..."

That glimpse into how another coal strike tore the high court asunder may foreshadow another and more violent turmoil. This time, of course, it would be the government seeking redress from the action of the miners' chieftain. But the Black should sit in the case, would be to the fore again. In the conclusion of his Nuremberg statement, Jackson said:

"However innocent the coincidence of these two victories at successive terms by Justice Black's former law partner, I wanted that practice stopped. If it is ever repeated while I am on the bench, I will make my Jewell Ridge opinion look like a letter of recommendation by comparison."

Freighter Henry Ford
Last Boat To Clear
Escanaba Harbor

The ore freighter Henry Ford was scheduled to arrive at the Chicago and North Western ore docks at six o'clock last night to take the last cargo of the season at Escanaba.

The Henry Ford was booked to load 11,600 tons of iron ore for shipment to Dearborn. The cold weather of the past several days required the steaming of ore cars to facilitate ore handling in the final days of the shipping season.

Decision Deferred On C-C Secretary

Peplums Conceal Posture Defects

BY ALICIA HART

Don't wear hip-hugging dresses or suits, unless you've made a vow to yourself to keep your tummy tucked in. Women who refuse to discipline themselves into good posture will need to hide a bulge under peplums or tunics.

But the vain one who knows what a long torso line in a dress can do for her Petty Girl figure can make it do MORE. If she'll wear her best posture under the sheath bodice or jacket.

Best posture is the tallest-making stance you can pull yourself up to without strain. A trick of alignment which an actress once confided to me—and one of the best I know to pass on to you—is to bring forward the top knob of your spine from the back of your neck until it feels as though it is resting at the base of your throat like an Adam's apple.

Give this technique a whirl, and see if your tummy doesn't do a vanishing act. Also check on the improvement in bust measurement, chin line, bearing of your head and slackness in your belt. Also check on how much more height you gain.

Training Of Seeing Eye Dogs Is Difficult Work

BY FRANCES LEWINE
AP Newsfeatures

Morristown, N. J.—Behind the scenes at The Seeing Eye, where dogs and blind persons are taught to work together, a unique school within a school is in operation.

The school, without classrooms or textbooks, has a maximum enrollment of five apprentices—it's purpose the training of instructors who will carry on the work of preparing dogs to guide the blind.

There are no entrance examinations and only a seven-point standard for applicants, but in the 17 years of its operations only five out of 50 apprentices have succeeded and remained in the school.

Candidates Are Sifted

From hundreds of applications, apprentices are selected on the basis of character, intelligence, stamina and spirit. Only sighted men are accepted, between the ages of 22 and 27, not more than 5 feet 10 inches in height. They must be high school graduates.

While it takes only three months to educate a class of dogs and one month to teach the blind, it takes four years to train an instructor.

Apprentices who live at the school for at least the first six months, work a dawn-to-dusk schedule, almost entirely outdoors, under the guidance of supervisor George William Debetz.

Debetz, a small, wiry, brown-haired and mustached man of 40, was one of the original apprentice instructors who came from Switzerland shortly after the Seeing Eye was organized in America.

The apprentice work in the kennels, learning care and feeding of the dogs, for the first six months. They learn by observation, by advice from the supervisor and other instructors, and by actual participation.

During the second six-month period, the apprentice advances to obedience training, and then begins preliminary harness work under conditions similar to those the dog will meet when guiding a blind master.

It's a Tough Course

Debetz, who had never worked with dogs, never even owned a dog, before he started with the Seeing Eye group, admitted that the four-year course is "tough" and that most of the men "don't know what they're getting into."

He said the most successful applicants were those who had "feeling for their fellow men" and ordinate their activities with the guide dogs.

DOG leads way across street

"There are NO exams," Debetz says, smilingly. "The actions of the dogs show any deficiency in the apprentice who has worked with them."

After four years, the apprentice usually is ready to work independently of the supervisor, except for fine points and special problems, and he becomes an instructor.

The difficulty of finding apprentices who last through the final stage of training, Debetz says, is due to the fact that these young men must learn not only to work with dogs, but to adapt themselves to work with blind people.

At the outset, he added, the apprentice is introduced to a new pattern of thought toward animals. "He must start to understand and realize the way a dog is thinking."

Then Teach the Blind

After a year or 18 months, blind students are assigned to the apprentice to be taught to co-

The Fred Pfeifers Star In Story Of "Railroad Family"

Of interest to their friends in this community is a recent story in the Daily Journal of International Falls, Minn., concerning the "railroad family" of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Pfeifer, who now reside in Ranier, Minn.

The story concerns Miss Patricia Pfeifer, their daughter, who recently became station agent at Brule, Wis., although she is only 18 years old. She is a telegrapher in addition to handling regular station work. Her father has been agent at Ranier for the Duluth, Winnipeg and Pacific line for 10 years.

Mr. Pfeifer taught every member of his family telegraphy, and four of them have made profitable use of the knowledge. During his youth he fell while trying to "hop" a train and suffered the loss of a foot. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pfeifer visited friends in Rapid River last summer.

MacArthur's Tokyo Office Gets Comic Opera Bonus Plea

Tokyo—(AP)—It was like something out of Gilbert and Sullivan with Gen. MacArthur's headquarters acting as Lord High Executive.

Cam the former grand chamberlain to the emperor, the former vice grand chamberlain to the emperor, the former grand master of the empress dowager's household and the former director of the office of the imperial court police and guards.

They had got their regular retirement grants, but, said the imperial request, they also ought to get a special bonus of about $7,500 for "meritorious services."

Headquarters received the request in its role of grand chamberlain in charge of petitions, scrutinized it in its capacity as grand master of the imperial purse, and said "no" in its office of Lord High Executioner, swinging its budgetary snicker-sneeze.

The Escanaba city ordinance prohibiting all-night parking on city streets becomes effective Sunday, Dec. 1, motorists were reminded yesterday by Police Captain Jack Finn.

Parking on all streets is prohibited during those hours except on streets in the first one-half block north and south of Ludington. The exception is made to permit over-night parking for hotel guests and other visitors in the city.

Cooks Scout Troop Registers For '47

Boy Scout troop 464 of Cooks, sponsored by the Inwood township school, and under the direction of Elgie Dow as Scoutmaster and Lee Waters as junior assistant Scoutmaster has completed its necessary arrangements for the operation of a Scout Troop for the year ending 1947.

This year's registration marks the adventure in Scouting for troop 464, for the third year since its organization. During the two years just past, a varied Scouting program has been carried out under the direction of its Scoutmaster and junior leaders, which speaks well for the unit's program.

The troop has on its roster, 10 tenderfoot Scouts; Gerard Popour, Don Miller, Edward Strassler, Louis Borkony, Alfred Orr, Lyle Young, Melvin Siddall, Jack Orr, Larry Neelis, and Wilbur Silkman.

First class Scouts are; Francis Davidson, Leonard Swagert, Leon Lund, Richard DeMars, Keith Cutler and Ross Young.

Lee Walters is Star Scout, and now working on his Life rank requirements.

Troop committeemen have been increased over the last year consisting of Edward Deloria, as chairman, with J. Griffin, Hans Lund, William Strassler, Sr., and Alvert Davidson, committee members.

Troop 464 holds its meetings at the Cooks School, and is able to include their Scout meetings in with some of their school activities, much to the success of the Scouting program at Cooks. Troop 464 was well represented at Red Buck Scout Camp last year.

ENGLISH WORKS TIRE TEACHERS

Give American Writers
Top Place In Schools,
Says Educator

BY JAMES P. HACKETT
Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 29 (P)—A literary revolution designed to puncture the prestige of Shakespeare, Shelley, Keats and other English classicists in American schools was proposed today at the 36th annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English.

E. Sculley Bradley, chairman of American civilization at the University of Pennsylvania, proposed in a paper that English writers take a back seat to Mark Twain, Edgar Allan Poe, Washington Irving, Walt Whitman and other American authors and poets.

Almost as startling as Bradley's paper was one by Harold A. Anderson of the University of Chicago, which fired a broadside at methods of teaching grammar.

Anderson said American youth has been confused, "if not corrupted," by such sheer grammatical myths as the split infinitive and the prepositional ending and a host of other linguistic idiosyncrasies which have preoccupied the interests of English teachers."

Dr. Dora V. Smith of the University of Minnesota, director of the council's newly formed commission on the English curriculum, reported the commission planned a three-year study with a view toward revising English curricula in elementary and secondary schools and in colleges and universities.

She said the commission would consider a change from emphasis on English literature to the teaching of American and other foreign works.

Out-Of-State War Veterans Get In On Michigan Bonus

Lansing, Nov. 29 (P)—Col. Philip C. Pack, director of the state office of veterans affairs, said today the state may have to pay bonuses up to $18,000,000 to persons not rightfully entitled to the benefits, unless definite residence requirements are set up.

Pack estimated that there were nearly 60,000 out-of-state veterans who could claim the bonus payments by virtue of six months work in Michigan defense plants prior to entering service, even though "many of them never lived in Michigan before and few have returned since they left service."

He declared that "if all these itinerant workers were paid the maximum bonus, it would amount to $18,000,000," and said the legislature will have to set up eligibility requirements to cover this group and others who will be claiming the bonus.

Pack estimated his office was receiving large numbers of requests from out-of-state veterans claiming eligibility for the Michigan bonus. Some, he said, have bona fide claims, while others are trying to take advantage of having worked or lived in Michigan at some time before entering the armed forces.

French Lick, Ind. Famous Spa Sold To New York Firm

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 29 (P)—A New York hotel syndicate tonight purchased French Lick Springs hotel, nationally famous spa in southern Indiana.

The purchasers were the French Lick Hotel Company, Inc., and the Pluto Corporation of Delaware, headed by John B. Cabot of New York.

Cabot also heads the Cabot Shipping Company of New York, the Onondaga hotel in Syracuse, N. Y., the Floridian hotel of Miami Beach, Fla., and the Hamilton hotel, Utica, N. Y.

The hotel was part of the estate of the late Thomas D. Taggart Sr., former United States senator and former Mayor of Indianapolis. The heirs included Thomas D. Taggart Jr., a son, and four sisters.

The sale includes the 600-room hotel, 1,800 acres, three swimming pools, two golf courses, an airport, a riding horse stable, three mineral springs and the Pluto Water Bottling Works, and a large dairy and two herds of Jersey and Holstein cattle.

Although the consideration was not announced, it was reported to exceed $4,000,000.

Truman Appointment Grants Recognition To Small Business

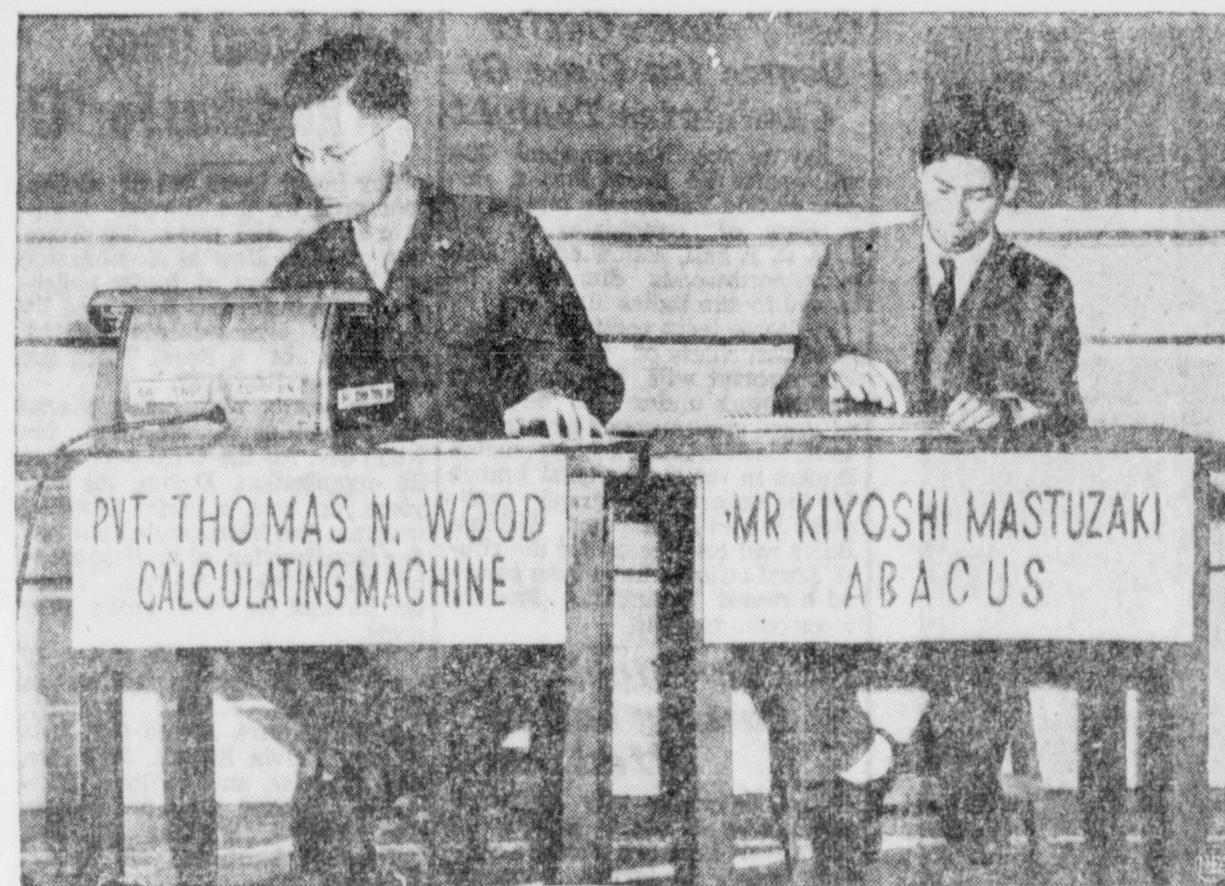

BY CHARLES MOLONY

Washington, Nov. 29 (P)—Alfred Schindler of St. Louis resigned today the undersecretary of commerce post he took over under Henry A. Wallace 19 months ago and President Truman named a small business man from Long Island, William Chapman Foster, to succeed him.

Emphasis placed by the White House announcement on Foster's small business connections underscored reports that his selection was motivated in part by desire to balance off the big business connections (railroads and banking) of Secretary Averell Harriman.

Foster, 49 year old president of the Pressed and Welded Steel Products Company Inc., is to take up his new duties in about a week. Like Harriman, Foster will have to be confirmed by a Republican-controlled Senate.

Foster, born April 27, 1897 at Westfield, N. J., is a Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduate. He flew as a army aviator in the First World War.

COUNCIL AGREES ON REPARATIONS

Molotov Yields On Plan
To Split War Damages
On 50-50 Basis

BY ALEX H. SINGLETON

New York, Nov. 29 (P)—Russia agreed tonight that Yugoslavia and Greece should share war reparations from Italy and Bulgaria on a 50-50 basis as the Council of Foreign Ministers jugged figures for four hours without reaching a final settlement.

Persons present at the council deliberations said that it marked the first time that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had departed from his position that Yugoslavia should receive the lion's share of reparations from the two countries. However, final settlement of the issue went over until tomorrow.

Molotov won United States support for a substantial reduction in the assessment against Bulgaria.

James F. Byrnes, U. S. Secretary of State, suggested a compromise by which Yugoslavia's reparations from Italy would be increased by $25,000,000 and reduced by a like amount from Bulgaria. Under this plan Greek reparations would remain at $100,000,000 from Italy and $15,000,000 from Bulgaria. The formula would bring both Greece and Yugoslavia a total of $145,000,000 each.

This plan, if accepted, would decrease Bulgaria's reparations from the $125,000,000 recommended at the Paris peace conference to $65,000,000. At the same time it would increase Italy's reparations by $25,000,000 over the total recommended at Paris.

New Shotgun Shell Has Expanding Wad To Deflect Force

(P) Newsfeatures

East Alton, Ill.—A new type shotgun shell with an expanding cup wad designed to seal the entire force of the powder behind the shot pellets has been introduced for hunters for the first time this year.

The new wad, on the principle of an umbrella, expands as it is forced up the barrel and seals the expanding powder gas behind it like the leather washer of a pump. The nose of the shell has a folding waxed crimp which eliminates the old style tan wad that deflected pellets as they left the gun muzzle.

The new load was announced by John M. Olin, president of Olin Industries, Inc.

Cleveland Utilities Shift To Oil Burner

Cleveland, Nov. 29 (P)—In an attempt to conserve coal during the current work stoppage of AFL-United Mine Workers, the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. will begin a conversion to oil-burning in its generating plants, company President E. Lindeth reported tonight.

The president of the firm, which supplies an estimated 80 per cent of electrical power used by Cleveland's industrial and residential consumers, said conversion to oil-burning would take place "gradually" until the capacity for liquid fuel reached 1,000,000 gallons daily, the equivalent of 6,000 tons of coal.

COAL DIGGER UNION LOSES FIRST ROUND

cessed until Monday morning.

As the legal showdown on the crippling strike went over to next week, at the earliest, the prospect of early negotiations between Lewis and the private operators—which was raised yesterday—also became clouded in dispute.

Ten members of the 27-man board of directors of the Southern Coal Producers Association repudiated the statement of their president, Edward R. Burke, that they would be "very happy" to negotiate with Lewis on wage, hour and other demands if a truce is called in the walkout. Their statement said that "there is a time and a place for contract negotiations, but it is not proper while this matter is in the federal courts."

Appeal Indicated

The care with which the defense attorneys set forth their views on the technicalities appeared to indicate that they plan to appeal my conviction and sentence.

As the walkout of 400,000 bituminous miners passed its ninth day amid mounting industrial curtailments and unemployment and the trial got under way in earnest, there were these other developments:

1. The West Virginia Coal Association repudiated, for its membership, the offer of Burke to negotiate with Lewis for a shorter work week.

2. Senator Knowland (R-Calif) released a letter to President Truman urging him to appeal for volunteers to work the mines under supervision of Army engineers if the unionists do not return within 48 hours. Senator Lucas (D-Ill) expressed hope the president himself will recommend labor legislation to the new congress. At the White House, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said there were no developments in the coal crisis, noting that "the matter is in the hands of the court."

3. Paul H. Griffith, National Commander of the American Legion, issued an appeal to "every patriotic American" to "stand by the president, the government and the law" in the coal dispute.

Yes! $2 a day was big money in 1908. Lard was approximately 12c a pound and eggs sold for about 10c a dozen. $2 a day bought the necessities of life and more... but few people drove automobiles. Cars cost several thousand dollars then and provided doubtful transportation. Even a tire (30 x 3) cost over $30 and it was unusual for it to last more than 2,000 miles. The automobile that now provides pleasure and transportation for almost every family, was then a very rich man's enjoyment.

Hundreds of other modern conveniences were either non-existent or beyond the pocketbooks of most Americans. Electric lights, fans, refrigerators, water heaters, and other appliances to add to home comfort and convenience had not reached the average American family... not because wages were low, ($2 a day was good pay in those days) but because, industrial efficiency and skill of both management and labor had not advanced to a point where it could be passed on to the consumer through progressive merchandising.

Consumers, and that includes all of us, benefit from industrial efficiency and skill in a number of ways. It raises our standards of living (now by far the highest of any country in the world). A dependable automobile can now be purchased for around $1,000 and a tire (6:00 x 16) good for 30,000 miles can be purchased for $12. Yet, today's average wage is many times more than $2 a day. Thus, our standard of living is raised by both low prices and high wages, provided that no one is paid more than he earns.

The people who now produce a big tire for $12 that will travel 30,000 miles earn more and get more than those who built a tire that could only travel 2,000 miles and sold at a price of $30... so it is with millions of other industrial employees (both management and labor) who are able to produce more and better goods at a price that customers are able and willing to pay... and thus earn higher wages... this is the American way.

Frequently, we manufacturers are reminded that higher wages mean little if the cost of living increases. This truth cannot be contradicted and the purpose of this ad is to explain our position and attitude.

Grand Coulee, Wash.—Four mighty motors to pump irrigation water from the Grand Coulee reservoir have been ordered. They will be the most powerful single alternating current electric motors ever built.

These giants will be 65,000 horsepower units, 50 per cent larger than the most powerful motor of the type now in existence. Each will force more than 600,000 gallons of water a minute through an 850-foot tunnel into a canal leading to a reservoir from which will flow to irrigate more than a million acres of semi-dry land in south-central Washington.

The giant motors are to be built by Westinghouse at its East Pittsburgh plant. At the Grand Coulee project, they will team up with six huge water-wheel generators designed and constructed by the same company. Each motor will weigh 325 tons, and will be as big as a modern six-room house. Their rotors, or rotating parts, will each weigh 172 tons.

The heating problem in such giant motors constitute a special problem. In operation the rotor will revolve 200 times a minute using up 50,000 kilowatts of electricity. This means the generation of very large amounts of heat.

Irish Linen Weavers Busy, New Stocks Reach America

Washington, D. C.—Irish linens—tablecloths, napkins, dress goods, shirtings and handkerchiefs—again reach United States shores as mills around Belfast hum with peacetime production. Exports of linen from Northern Ireland in the first eight months of 1946 exceeded $20,000,000 in value.

The mills in recent war years supplied cloth for uniforms, tent duck, sailcloth, and canvas floats for flyers, as well as linen for airplane construction. Little household linen was made, notes the National Geographic Society.

During the first World War, Northern Ireland provided almost 100 million yards of airplane linen much of which came to the United States. By 1925 the United States was importing $18,000,000 worth of linen from Ireland.

Industry Grew Slowly

Recovery since World War II has been retarded by the war's destruction of one-seventh of the looms, and by a shortage of skilled labor.

Fine Irish linen results from centuries of development. Many families in the trade have been weavers for generations. As early as 1210 Ireland's linen industry flourished, and in the 15th century Irish linen was known and prized throughout Europe.

Quality of the linen has been advanced by developments outside Ireland. In 1638, the Earl of Strafford, then English viceroy in Ireland, introduced the spinning wheel from Holland to replace the centuries-old distaff and spindle. He also imported the finest flax seed to be had in the Low Countries. The Duke of Ormonde brought over 500 Dutch families, skilled spinners and weavers.

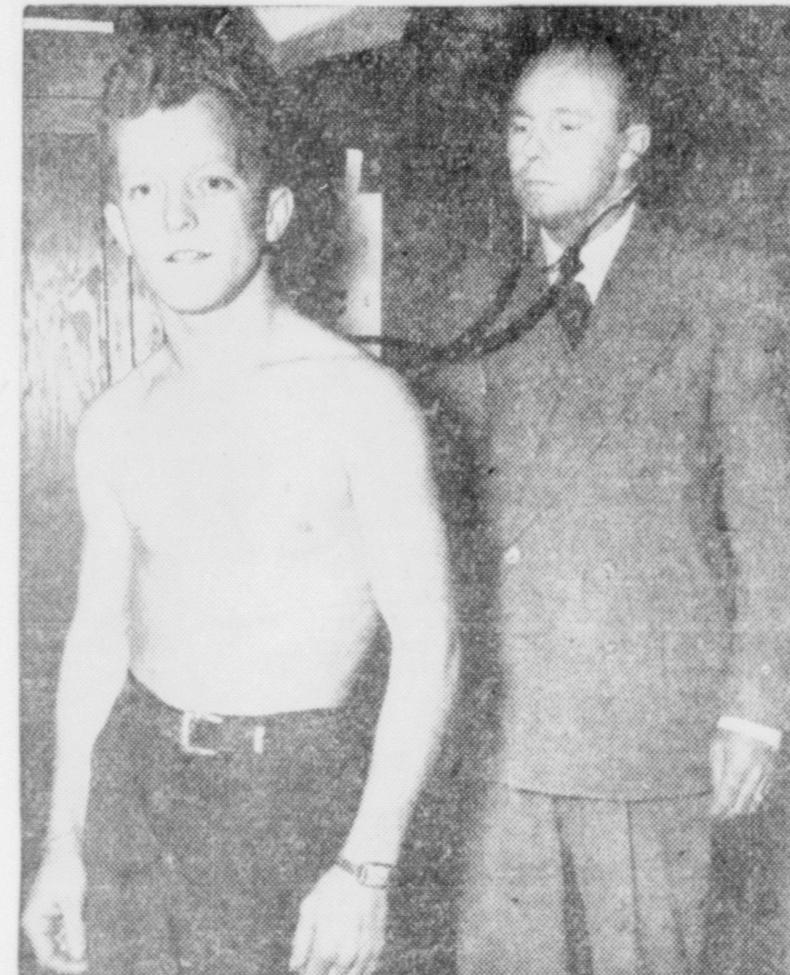

Toward the close of the 17th century, nearly 6,000 Huguenot refugees came from France, including many skilled weavers of fine damasks and cambries. They

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

Almost by accident recently, I had the opportunity to examine the raw material of a book that has been on the market for some years. When the volume appeared several years ago I read it with interest; in it the author had made an attempt, successfully I think, to paint a sociological portrait of a Western community.

The chance came to follow in his creative footsteps, to examine piece by piece, document by document, the material out of which he had distilled his exposition letters, articles, books, newspaper clippings all the types of sources that writers use to get their facts and ideas.

Apparently the author had submitted a rough draft to a citizen of the community that he had been trying to put into his portrait. At any rate, there was a letter from this citizen among the documents giving advice on what to eliminate, what to add, what modifications would be desirable to make the portrait of the community authentic.

I should like to quote a sentence or two; since no names are mentioned or even hinted at, there can be no ethical impropriety in quoting sentences from a personal letter, all the more so because the author has probably completely forgotten it after all these years.

The writer said among many other things: "I honestly believe you should spend more time here among the people before you try to interpret them. You have not touched the heart of the spirit here... Perhaps it could only be done in a novel."

That last sentence particularly is arresting. The author of the sociological portrait of the Western city has actually written several novels, and he may take his correspondent's advice some time in this case. So far as he went in his expository portrait he probably did as good a job as anyone could have done. But "perhaps it can only be done in a novel."

In other words, contrary to general opinion, things can be done in a novel that can't even be touched in a straight exposition. In spite of the patronizing attitude that many solemn people still maintain toward the novel, a novelist is usually more difficult to write, and it can usually get closer to the deepest meanings in life, than all the learned expositions that solemn people indulge in.

A novel—that is a truly great novel—is so very difficult to write because it has to be lived first. This writer's correspondent hit the nail on the head when he said: "I honestly believe you should spend more time here among the people before you try to interpret them." A novelist can bone up on a community and write a passably good exposition by merely visiting it. A novelist, to do a really good job, would have to become a part of the community. Unless he succeeds in getting the community into his blood his chance of success is poor. Most novelists are not willing to pay so high a price; which is one good reason why great novels are rare.

A novelist describing an execution can't merely read up on how a prisoner feels who is about to be executed. Facts alone won't do the business. When a novelist, like Dostoevski, has actually had the rope around his neck that was to have hanged him and then has lived to tell the story, truly great fiction has a chance. Or when a Mark Twain remembers creatively what he himself did as a boy we have a chance to get a "Huckleberry Finn." A great novel must be paid for.

Promoters even put on national contests for women huskers.

It was the mechanical picker, even more than the war and the somewhat coupé-up quality of the sporting event—that sped the corn-husking contest on its way out. Tractor drawn pickers are making corn picking by hand a forgotten art.

Perhaps if an idea conceived by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce to 1940 had borne fruit, the contest might have hung on for a while longer. Bidding for the 1942 National contest, the Chamber

FUNGI RUINS TOMATO CROP

Disease Similar To One
Which Attacked
Irish Spuds

Washington—The same deadly fungus that caused famine in Ireland a hundred years ago by wiping out the potato crop will make canned tomatoes and tomato juice harder to find this winter at your grocery store.

An unexpected attack of the late blight of tomato sneaked up on American tomato fields this year just as they were about to produce a bumper crop of red fruits for canning and juice. It caused losses as high as nine-tenths of the potential yield in some commercial fields, and diminished the returns by half or more in eight eastern seaboard states. This is another strain of the death-dealing blight that visited Ireland a century ago.

A United States Department of Agriculture survey of the lost battle against the tomato late blight this year shows that the heaviest damage was concentrated in the chain of states along the Atlantic Coast from Virginia to Florida, together with Pennsylvania, Delaware and Rhode Island. In these states, more than half the potential crop was lost.

Damage ranging from a quarter to a half was reported from Alabama, West Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and the New England states. West of these hardest-hit states the losses were lighter, and the only trans-Mississippi states reporting any damage at all were Iowa and Minnesota.

The deadly fungus, Phytophthora infestans, has damaged potatoes in this country as well as causing the common late blight and tuber rot in Irish potatoes. But where it attacks potatoes it frequently does little or no damage to neighboring tomatoes.

Scientists, studying the mystery of the late blight in both tomatoes and potatoes, learned that under ideal conditions the fungus can become adapted to tomatoes. When it does, it retains its ability to attack potatoes. It takes seven successive generations of the potato menace for it to develop into the tomato late blight.

Labor Disputes Are Explained By Psychologists

New York—Why are some labor-management problems settled happily with cooperation, while others, like the present coal situation, end in bitter strikes? Three psychologists have answered that question in terms of cooperation and harmony of interests between the rival factions.

Dr. John R. P. French, Jr., of Nejelski and Co., Dr. Arthur Kornhauser, Bureau of Applied Social Research of Columbia University, and Dr. Alfred Marrow, director of research and president of the Harwood Manufacturing Co., writing in The Journal of Social Issues, list four results of labor-management problems caused by different sets of interests and attitudes.

1. When there is a common interest, as in preventing accidents, a cooperative spirit will produce a positive program of cooperation.

2. Without the cooperative spirit in meeting the problem, passive acceptance is the result where the interests are common.

3. If interests are different, as in a wage dispute, a cooperative attitude produces a friendly collective bargaining.

4. John L. Lewis and the government are in the fourth situation, labelled by the psychologists conflict relationship. This is produced by the absence of harmony of interests plus the lack of cooperative spirit.

Newspapers never did get around to sending out their sports experts to cover the event, the farm editors went instead.

That's not to say that the contests lacked color. Crowds annually numbered tens of thousands, even upwards of 100,000. Play by play accounts went out on radio networks. Celebrities showed up and there were always a handful of bands, a flock of concessions and hot dog vendors (who sold mostly hamburgers, a corn belt preference).

The reasons were obvious.

Fall is flirting with winter when midwestern farmers pick their corn and husking contest spectators didn't even have the meager protection from the elements afforded by a football stadium.

The huskers—"shuckers" in Missouri—lined up in their lanes which consisted of a group of standing corn rows separated by clearings of corn stubble. No one could possibly watch all the huskers at once. Partisans chose their man and when the starting bomb exploded, off he went, stripping the stalks dexterously and thumping the ears rhythmically against the bangboard on his wagon, his loyal followers trailing along as best they might.

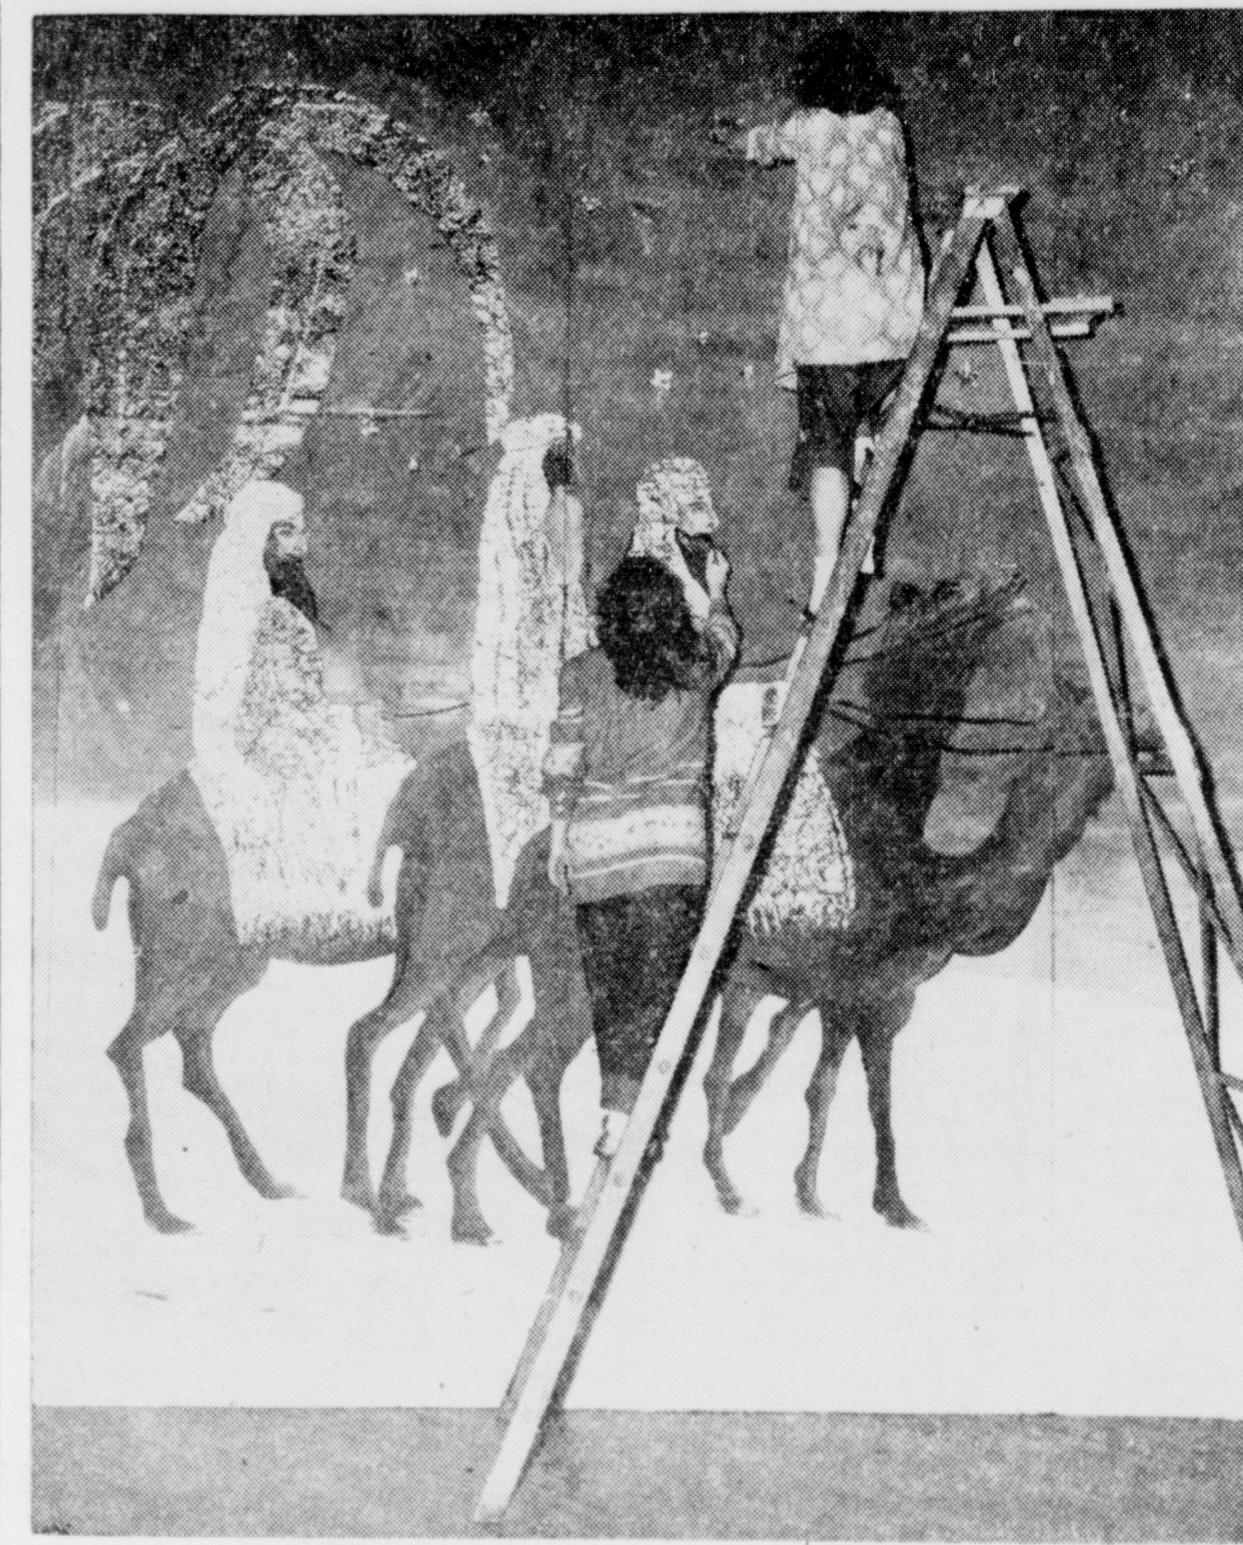

To follow even one contestant a spectator had to be both mobile and agile and moving around in a cornfield meant exposure to thick dust or sticky mud, depending on soil conditions.

Then too, there was plenty of competition for vantage space from some of the other tens of thousands of contest visitors trying to keep up with the field action, not to mention some 1,000 guards normally employed to keep spectators from trampling the corn and interfering with the pickers.

Even after the contest had run its allotted time, a man still didn't know who had won. If a watcher stopped watch to determine the number of ears each picker was tossing into his wagon per minute, but that didn't tell him much. Under proposed (perhaps with tongue in cheek) that corn be planted on the infidels at Ak-Sar-Ben race track in Omaha. Spectators could have parked their automobiles on the huge concrete lot, would have been ushered into the stands to watch the contest in comfort and been served their hamburgers in best football game fashion.

It would have been an improvement—for spectators, anyway.

U.S.S. Oklahoma Lands On Navy Auction Block

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York—(AP)—You, too, can own a battleship—if you happen to want one for your business.

All you need is a couple of small fortunes, one to buy the ship and the other to tow her home over several thousand miles. Also, you'll have to have the old lady to get rough. No shooting, that is.

The 32-year-old U.S.S. Oklahoma is the first American battleship to be put up for public sale in modern times. At least Navy records back to 1914—the year the Oklahoma was commissioned—and sketchier records going back another half-century show no such sale.

The 29,000-ton vessel goes on the auction block Nov. 26 at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, but there are a few catches.

The Oklahoma is little more than a scarred, patched-up hull, completely inoperable now. She awaits her new owner at Pearl Harbor, T. H., where she entered her first and last battle Dec. 7, 1941, dying 11 minutes later.

Anyone who buys the ship will have to tow the hulk back to the mainland at his own expense, which is estimated between $50,000 and $75,000. The most likely result is that the old battleship will be bought for scrap. Given the proper conditions, however, the Navy is willing to sell her to a buyer who intends to operate the ship again.

The sale of an old ship invariably makes the men who once sailed her heartsick because the vessel attempts to right her. Then it took 69 hours of steady pulling by huge cables to get the ship straight again in May, 1943, revealing only a stark mess of gnarled steel. The job required 50 divers.

But the Oklahoma never could make it. Many long months of labor were required by Navy salvagers before they could attempt to right her. Then it took distribution and Disposal Administration, which will open sealed, competitive bids. The Navy reserves the right to reject any or all bids because of the amount offered or the purpose to which the buyer intends to put the battleship.

The auction sale will be administered by the Navy Material Re-

If the buyer wants to use the Oklahoma as a ship again, he'll have to get special clearance from the Secretary of Navy. If the buyer intends to turn the ship over to a foreign government, he'll have to go through exhaustive examination by the Navy and other government departments. In any case, the Navy intends to make certain that no one, foreign or domestic, will use the ship for warlike purposes, even if the battleship could stand.

But that was before the day of air power and before wars which started without first being declared.

The Oklahoma was commissioned March 23, 1914 and later modernized at a cost of $7,000,000. She was 583 feet long, mounted ten 14-inch and 12 five-inch guns and had two catapults and three planes.

In the first World War, the Oklahoma was based at Berehaven, Ireland, and played a vital part in guarding allied shipping and troop convoys. But she never fired a shot in battle.

In 1919, the dreadnaught accompanied the George Washington which carried President Wilson back from the Versailles peace conference. In 1936, the Oklahoma raced into Spanish waters to evacuate Americans caught there at the outbreak of the Civil War. After that, the Oklahoma dropped off the front pages until Dec. 7, 1941.

Eleven minutes after the first Japanese plane struck Pearl Harbor, the Oklahoma capsized and sank with 416 officers and men. For a while it was thought that she might be refitted and sent to sea to seek vengeance.

COAL SHORTAGE STRIKES INTO LIFE

A serious coal shortage means a lot more than a shortage of heat and power. Coal is the raw material from which hundreds of essential products are wholly or partly made. A few of the important non-fuel coal products are illustrated above. Many are still in short supply from last spring's strike. (NEA Photo.)

Economic Blight Grips City Without Newspaper*By ALLAN KELLER

Springfield, Mass., (NEA)—The most popular mass in the local Catholic churches is the first one at seven o'clock. It has been so for the last two months—not for any religious reason, but because a churchgoer at the first mass can hope to pick up a Sunday paper from Boston, Hartford or New York from one of the newsboys stationed near the churches.

If you're late you go without a paper. Since Sept. 27 there have been no papers published locally because of a strike, and this Connecticut River city of 160,000 is in the grip of a social and economic blight that grows worse day by day.

Psychologically the effect is depressing. Friends meet on the sidewalk and hesitate to ask each other about other friends or relatives. They did when the strike was new, but so often the reply followed a pattern—" Didn't you know? He was buried Saturday"—that now certain questions are never asked.

Babies are born, men and women die, couples are married in Springfield and word of the events crawls slowly about by word of mouth. Florists are taking a terrible beating, with sales at about 50 per cent of normal, because vital notices are not read by friends and relatives and there are no orders for flowers to be delivered to funeral homes, hospitals or churches.

Retail stores and shops are heading into their Christmas sales period with trepidation, knowing that their only medium of advertising is a shopping news delivered free to the doorsteps of about 60,000 homes. This throw-away comes out twice a week, but was to jump to three issues a week any day.

Not one merchant failed to admit, however, that it was a poor substitute for display ads in a daily paper.

There is no doubt about the economic blight that has settled over the city. Unassimilable figures from the Federal Reserve Bank at Boston disclosed that Springfield's business is the worst of any city in New England.

Weekly figures for increased business over the show cities like Boston, Hartford, Worcester and Portland reporting twice and three times the upswing recorded by Springfield retailers.

When the Republicans came out on top in the recent election they had no way of telling the public the results except by radio. Even this medium of news distribution fell down. Except for the key figures whose victory was acclaimed over the air the public had to learn by word of mouth whether local officials had won or lost.

The strange cloud that settled over the city when the papers ceased publication has cloaked strange events. Many citizens claim that the politicians slipped over a costly reduction in hours for members of the Fire Department simply because the public had no forum in which to learn all sides of the question.

There are many citizens here who fear that the local administration will railroad gravy trains through while the light of public scrutiny is blacked out. Already a bike in pay for teachers has been put forward by the school board.

Many a well traveled visitor walking the streets of Springfield

Seney, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. Watson arrived last week from Detroit and have taken over the management of the Seney Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Weeks have returned to their home in Detroit after spending the hunting season with Mrs. Weeks' sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. R. Smithson.

Virginia Ketola arrived home Friday from Big Rapids for the holidays.

Miss Goudreau is spending the holidays at her home at Manistique on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tucker.

Walter Duke was shot in the leg by S. Boursham while hunting in the woods south of Seney. Only a few shots from the buckshot cartridge entered the leg. The rest of the charge blew the stock of his rifle off. Mr. Duke was sitting on a stump when hit. He is a brother-in-law of Harold Drake of Seney. He was taken to the Newberry Clinic for treatment.

Pvt. Robert McDowell arrived home Monday from Fort Bragg, N. Carolina on a 10 day furlough. He was accompanied from Chicago by his brother, Alvin.

Mrs. Veda Sadler and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pawley, narrowly escaped serious injury when their car overturned on the icy road near Blaney. No one was seriously injured.

The Springfield Symphony Orchestra, a local civic enterprise, was forced to employ men as town criers to stand on busy streets announcing the opening of the winter season. People's, a local department store, opened a new costume jewelry section and couldn't announce the innovation. Attendance at the icecapades, an annual sellout, was far below standards.

Much more serious than these trivial annoyances was the colossal flop of the local Community Chest drive. For the first time in Springfield's history the campaign failed to reach its goal, falling 20 per cent below it when the usual methods of advertising and promotion were denied them.

Hunger for news of the outside world is overpowering. Out of town papers are snapped up like hot cakes. The sale of magazines of all types has quadrupled. Even so, the demand outruns the supply. Every newspaper is suffering from depleted supplies of newsprint and cannot take advantage of the opportunity to send large quantities of their issues to Springfield.

Those that trickle in are soon gone. There have been many instances of newsdealers handing these papers to their favorite customers in paper bags, as bootleggers once distributed bottles.

A school teacher in the local high school said many persons in this city will have to wait until new history books are written to learn of world events. Her pupils, less conscious of the rarified existence in which they live, still are acutely aware of the absence of the comic strips.

There are many citizens here who fear that the local administration will railroad gravy trains through while the light of public scrutiny is blacked out. Already a bike in pay for teachers has been put forward by the school board.

Big Inch And Little Inch Helpful In Coal Strike

Washington—Whether the Big Inch and Little Inch could help the present coal situation is a debatable question but the odds are that they could if the strike is long continued.

Together these pipelines, 24-inch and 12-inch respectively, could deliver some 525,000 barrels of crude oil a day from Texas to New Jersey, or about 400,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas. While these quantities are far from the amount of fuel needed to replace coal in the northeast industrial area, they would help and permit such coal as may be available to go further in use.

Diesel stationary engines are now in use in thousands of industrial plants and electric stations throughout the country. More would undoubtedly follow if a reliable constant supply of oil was assured. The Big Inch or the Little Inch, or either of them, could supply tankers-shipped oil and give much of the security demanded. With a competing fuel available in the great eastern industrial areas, a coal union leader would think twice before ordering an unwise and untimely miners' strike.

There is no question of the practicality of using these well-built government-owned pipelines for natural gas. They are ready now for use in transporting crude oil. The delay would come in the conversion of heating and power plants in factories, public buildings and private homes. Equipment is not available in sufficient quantities. With an insured supply of either new fuel, some installations can be made immediately and others later.

Use Natural Gas

Not all American industrial areas will be seriously affected in operations because some now use natural gas for blast furnaces and power and diesels for powerplants.

This is particularly true in eastern Ohio and Chicago areas.

A Texas-Omaha natural gas line, constructed by the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Company, was completed in 1944 and supplies fuel to the Cleveland-Pittsburgh area. It is a 24-inch line about as long as the Big Inch in mileage.

A Texas Panhandle-Chicago 24-inch line has been in operation since 1931. These two lines prove the practicality of long-distance transmission of natural gas, and they now are saving the areas served from much of the horrors of a one-man coal strike.

Crude-oil pipelines are easily converted to carry natural gas. Prior to 1920, the principal movement of crude oil from mid-continent oil fields to the east coast was by pipelines. When tankers were developed to move the oil by water from Gulf ports, pipelines were laid from Oklahoma and Texas fields to the shipping points, and the former pipelines to the East were converted to other uses. Some were put into use to transport natural gas from the west to the east.

FINE ORCHESTRA COMING TO U.P.

Chicago Symphony Plays At Ishpeming On February 2

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Desire Defauw, noted conductor, will present a concert at the high school auditorium in Ishpeming on Sunday, Feb. 2, at 8:30 p.m.

It will be the orchestra's only appearance in the Upper Peninsula during its annual two-week tour of middle west cities.

Tickets are now available and orders may be placed with Irving Johns, director of music in the Gladstone public schools or with George Quaal, Ishpeming, who arranged the presentation. Prices include tax and insure a reserved seat.

A special price is being granted students and if sufficient interest is evinced here there is a possibility of chartering a bus to make the trip.

The Chicago Symphony, then the Chicago Orchestra, was founded in 1891 by Theodore Thomas with the support of public-spirited Chicagoans and today is the third oldest orchestra in America.

For 51 years, an unusual record, it had but two directors, Theodore Thomas, the founder from 1891 until his death in 1905 and Frederick Stock from 1905 until his death in 1942.

Desire Defauw was appointed musical director and conductor at the beginning of the 1943-44 season.

He came to Chicago with a brilliant record of accomplishments. He established Brussels as one of the most advanced musical centers of the continent and was known throughout Europe as one of the foremost of modern conductors. He has appeared as guest conductor with the leading European orchestras, including the Berlin Philharmonic, the Auguste of Rome and the orchestras of Vienna, Moscow, Leningrad, Madrid and Budapest. For four years he was conductor of the New Symphony Orchestra of London. He founded the "Concerts Defauw" in Brussels and established in Belgium a permanent national orchestra: the Orchestre National de Belgique. In America he has appeared as guest conductor with the NBC Symphony, the Boston and Detroit Symphonies, and at the time of his appointment as musical director of the Chicago Symphony he was the director of the "Concerts Symphoniques" of Montreal.

Eskimos And Trojans Meet Tonight At Bonifas Gymnasium

RESERVES IN 7 P. M. PRELIM

Both Coaches Plan Liberal Substitutions
In Cage Opener

A basketball opener that promises more than usual excitement will match the Escanaba Eskimos against the St. Joseph Trojans tonight at the Bonifas gymnasium. The reserve teams of the two schools will play at seven o'clock and the feature game will get under way at 8:30.

Officials will be Vance Hiney and Goldworthy, of Negaunee.

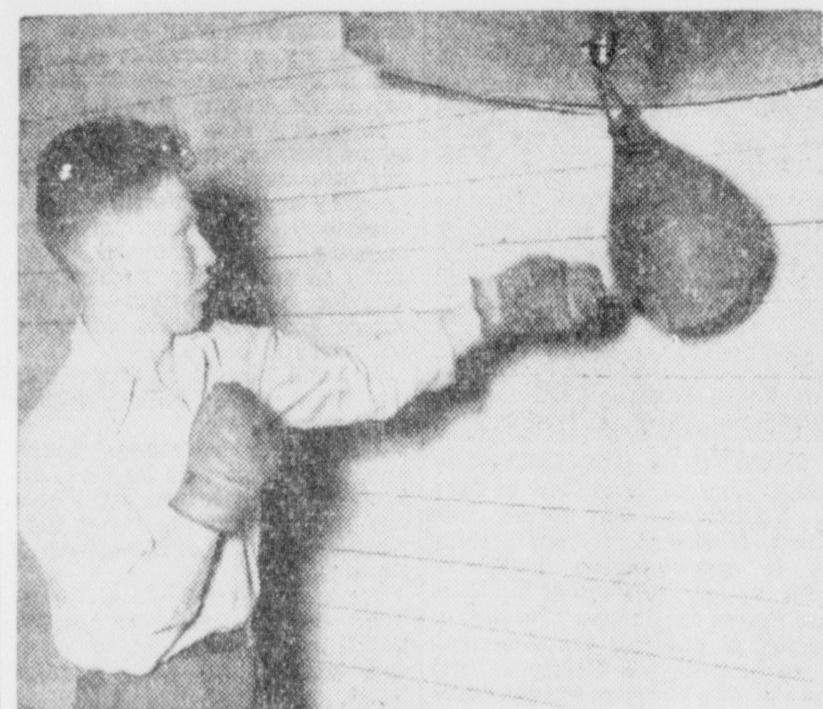

Neither of the opposing coaches named a starting lineup yesterday, indicating that numerous substitutions will be made from the two benches to give as many lads as possible a chance to show their stuff.

The Trojan squad, probably all of which will get into the fray, are Lewis, Fassbender, Murphy, Miron, Hendrickson, Courneen, Hirn, Harris, Menard and Gleich.

The Eskimos starting lineup probably will come from a list that includes Cota, Buckland, Schils and Piche, seniors; Lough, Dean and Hirn, juniors; Pryal and Abramson, sophomores. All of these boys are expected to see service tonight.

This is the first game of the season for the Eskimos, opening their defense of the Upper Peninsula championship, but it is the second for St. Joseph's Trojans, who lost their opener to an alumni team last Sunday, 22-18.

The game will be attended by a crowd that might set a new attendance record at the Bonifas gymnasium.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Local basketball fans will get their first look at the current edition of the Eskimos basketball team tonight when the Escanaba team meets St. Joseph at the Bonifas gymnasium. The Trojans made their debut a week ago against a St. Joseph Alumni team. A quick survey of talent through the peninsula indicates that there will be a number of hotshot aggregations. The men of mine, Iron Mountain, Sault Ste. Marie, and Ironwood are expected to be among the leaders in Class B with Norway, Newberry and Gladstone topping the list in Class C. Norway particularly will be powerful with a liberal return of last year's U. P. Class C champions.

The Eskimos are defending champions of the Upper Peninsula in Class B but it would take a miracle for them to achieve a successful defense of the title. Coach Rouman faces just about the same situation in basketball at EHS that Coach Ruwitt confronted in football last fall. The Eskimo talent is spread very thin at the very time that many of their opponents are coming up loaded to the teeth. Last year the Escanaba team won 17 out of 18 games and established a new scoring record at the local school. Anything close to a 50-50 break this year will be satisfactory indeed.

The Green Bay Packers have two more games remaining on their schedule, at Washington Sunday, Dec. 1 and at Los Angeles Sunday, Dec. 8. They need a victory in either of those games to finish with a winning percentage (over .500). The Packers have won five and lost four games this far and have scored 111 points to 113 for their opponents. The game at Los Angeles is expected to attract 65,000 fans. The Bays passed the 5,000 mark in points scored in their 26 years of National League football when they defeated Detroit, 9 to 6.

Silver Foxes Will Play At Negaunee

Hermansville's crack Silver Foxes quintet travel to Negaunee Saturday night when they take on the Negaunee Chateaus in the opening game of the Northern Lakes Circuit.

The Silver Foxes last week shellacked the colored Toledo All-American and Saturday's game will be their second game this season.

Coach Glenn Fleetwood announced today that 10 men will make the trip. Those making the trip are Steve, Mike and Tony Machalk, Frank Miketina, Bruno Mauli, John Pierpon, Reno Fochesato, Bruce Kelly, LeRoy Flortano, and George Earl.

This will be the 47th collision between the Army and the Navy, and will mark the end of the football road for nine of the 11 starting Cadets who have rolled up the greatest gridiron record of a generation, headed by "the monster and his playmate," line-busting Don Blanchard and galloping Glen Davis.

It figures to be quite a party, too, what with fair and cold—45 degree temperature—promised by old man weather for the 12:30 p. m. (CST) kickoff, and a cozy gathering of 102,000 crammed into the huge South Philadelphia horse-shoe to the rafters.

On hand will be President and Mrs. Truman, and War and Navy Secretaries Robert Patterson and James Forrestal, to say nothing of the Army brass and Navy scrambled eggs.

The Betting boys and girls don't think that this Navy team, beaten in seven straight starts and sporting a long injury list, is going to offer much to stop the West Point whiz-bangs from making it 27 wins in 28 times out since they started their gridiron wrecking job three years ago. The local price-makers in fact, have Army a four-touchdown favorite—with extra points, to boot—and the men's workouts for both outfits on the Municipal Stadium battle-

Fighting Illini Will Battle UCLA Jan. 1 In Famed Rose Bowl

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY

Chicago, Nov. 29 (P)—Illinois, 1946 gridiron champion of the Western Conference, will battle undefeated, untied UCLA in Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

The Fighting Illini, triumphant in six out of seven conference games, were the choice of the conference faculty representatives, who today communicated their votes to Kenneth L. Wilson, commissioner of athletics, at Chicago.

Illinois, lacking a glittering offense, will go into the New Year's Day classic boasting bulldog tenacity and courage. Few teams in conference history have displayed better defensive ability. Victorious over Michigan, Ohio State, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern, Illinois yielded only to Indiana, defending champion.

Champaign, a university community of 50,000, was elated over Illinois' acceptance, marking the end of the "Big Nine's" 26-year old ban on bowl contests.

Most members of the squad were absent from the campus on a Thanksgiving vacation. Gone, too, were Ray Elliot, head football coach, and Ralph Fletcher, backfield coach, who flew to Los Angeles to scout UCLA in its final game of the regular season tomorrow.

The faculty committee on athletics at Illinois lost no time in accepting the bid. Decision was reached after a brief session and Commissioner Wilson was quickly notified.

This was the same committee which a month ago voted against a Western Conference-Uacific Coast five-year tieup.

The Illinois squad will resume football practice at Champaign Dec. 15 and will entrain for Los Angeles Dec. 20 to get in a week's practice on the coast to acclimate the players to the 70 degree temperature usually prevailing at Pasadena New Year's Day.

The squad is in excellent shape except for Bernie Krueger, reserve quarterback, who suffered a shoulder injury last week. The Flint touch-down twins, George Guerre and Lynn Chandnois, are expected to handle the running chores while Guerre and Gene Glick of Saginaw will do the passing.

Passers Russ Reeder and Don Waldron have left the squad.

Sparkling the Washington State passing attack will be T-formation quarterbacks Gordy Brunswick and Frank Mataya. The Cougars arrived in Lansing by planes Friday afternoon and worked out in MacIn stadium.

SPARTANS WIND UP BAD SEASON

East Lansing, Nov. 29 (P)—Michigan State college will close its second worst football season under the 13-year reign of Head Coach Charley Bachman here Saturday when it meets Washington State.

The Spartans will be trying to finish the season with a 500 percentage, having won four of their first nine contests. The Cougars will be seeking their second victory.

State's worst season under Bachman was in 1940, when the Spartans won three, lost four and tied one. State won four, lost four and tied one the year before that.

Freshman fullback Jim Blenkorn of Saginaw will be the only starter for M. S. C. who didn't start last week's game with Maryland. Blenkorn will replace Waters, who suffered a shoulder injury last week. The Flint touch-down twins, George Guerre and Lynn Chandnois, are expected to handle the running chores while Guerre and Gene Glick of Saginaw will do the passing.

Passers Russ Reeder and Don Waldron have left the squad.

BOWEN WILL SPEAK DEC. 4

Co-op League Official
To Discuss Current Economic Trends

"Economic Trends - Boom or Bust" will be the subject of an address to be delivered by E. R. Bowen of Chicago at the Carpenters hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 4. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Bowen is acting secretary of the Cooperative League of the U. S. A. and the economic research director of the National Cooperatives, Inc. He will speak in Escanaba on current economic trends under the sponsorship of the educational department of the Central Cooperative Wholesale.

"Mr. Bowen's facts are basic and his excellent presentation is particularly timely now because most economists agree that the postwar readjustment is coming sooner than was anticipated," states Hanford Olson, membership relations director of the Central Cooperative Wholesale.

Mr. Bowen will speak at the high school auditorium in Gladstone Dec. 5 and at the Labor hall in Marquette Dec. 6.

Pickands-Mather To Do Exploring

Crystal Falls—Officials of the Pickands-Mather Mining company, with offices in Caspian, last week announced placement of a diamond drill for exploratory purposes on their property in south Crystal Falls township.

Hiring at the E. J. Longyear company of Minneapolis to do the drilling in search of a potential ore reserve followed closely upon the heels of a preliminary survey of the grounds west of the old Carpenter mine. The survey was conducted early in October.

The drilling operations were started by the Longyear company about two weeks ago, Pickands-Mather officials said today. They declined to disclose the present depth of the drilling work.

The Pickands-Mather property in Crystal Falls township is located north of the old Dunn mine and west of the Carpenter property. The company, which operates two mines on the west side of the county, the Buck and the James, owns one complete forty of land in the vicinity of the old Dunn mine and has a one-half interest in several others.

Harold Richard, former superintendent of the Penn Iron Mining Company, Vulcan, a subsidiary of Pickands-Mather, is superintendent of the two west side mines, with offices in Caspian.

May Expose Girls To German Measles

New York—Young girls may some day in the future be deliberately exposed to German measles in order to protect any children they have when they grow up from being born with cataracts, heart trouble or other defects. This "wholly justifiable procedure" was suggested by Dr. Herbert C. Miller of the University of Kansas School of Medicine at the meeting here today of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

There is about a 25% chance at present that an expectant mother who gets German measles during the first three months of pregnancy will give birth to a baby with some defect. There is no serum or vaccine that gives protection against German measles, or rubella as doctors call it. But one attack of the disease gives protection against further attacks. The disease is very mild and almost never has any serious complications. That is why Dr. Miller thinks it would be justifiable to give girls an attack of the disease before they are old enough to be having babies.
